

ODD MAN OUT?

They call him Goody-goody
Because he won't oblige
By using things like steroids
To increase the pony's size.

They call him Fuddy-duddy
Because he does not choose
To make his pony lift his knees
Through wearing heavy shoes.

They say he's dull and out of date
Because he has a passion
For truth and honest dealing
That are sadly out of fashion.

They think he's made to play it straight
To sacrifice the glory
They do not seem to realise
That fame's not half the story.

That when the years have run their course
And we are dead and gone
The things we thought important
Will be living on and on.

That goodness, truth and honesty
Existing in the mind
Become embodied in the stock
We needs must leave behind.

This legacy of lasting worth
He will not compromise
A virtue that's immortal
Shines in the pony's eyes
